The opportunity of the teaching career

I have worked at a cram school throughout my college days due to my passion of English language and coupled with reasons that my family and relatives are also teachers. Therefore, I am very enthusiastic about teaching.

Is there a gap between your imagination and reality in the period of education?

Technically no, but it is very competitive for spots on the school's written and oral tests. In the education program stage, there are not only a certain level of requirement in terms of credits, but also a variety of curriculum topics, including child development, psychology, philosophy and so on.

What to do when conflict happens between students?

Firstly, determine the solution based on the age of the students. The most important thing is to first understand the intentions and causes behind why students fight. If you encounter the situation with a special student, you should first communicate by chatting to make the special student feel trustworthy, and then only communicate and interact with him to solve it.

Steps of becoming a formal teacher

Master degree of teacher education program → Pass both written and oral exam of teacher education program → (Before internship) Get the teacher certification → Half year internship → Pass the teacher recruitment test (written & oral exam, trial teaching)

Advice for juniors:

Actively join school clubs, part-time jobs, exchange programs. Many said "chance favours the prepared mine", but as long as you can overcome the difficulties encountered, it means that you are ready.
